

OBITUARY.

After a long and lingering illness with great suffering borne with great patience our old friend and comrade, Mr. L. S. Palmer passed away at 11:40 Tuesday morning, July 31, 1900.

Comrade Palmer was born in Littleton, N. H. on Feb. 24, 1830. He came to Evansville, Wis. in June 1855 and taught the first district school that ye editor ever attended in this place, in the winter of 1855; he was married to Miss Emma J. Rowley on Nov. 23, 1856, after which Comrade Palmer and his wife both taught school in the same building here, it becoming necessary to divide the school into two departments.

He enlisted in Co. F, 16th Regt. Wis. Vol. Inf., Jan. 4, 1864; served through the Atlanta campaign, was with Sherman in his noted march to the sea, participating in the battles of Big Shanty, Kennesaw Mountain, Nickajack Creek, Leggett's Hill, Atlanta, Ezra Church, Jonesboro, Lovejoy Station, Siege of Atlanta and Siege of Savannah; he was at the grand review of the Union troops in Washington, D. C. when the army was disbanded at the close of the war. His comrades all loved and respected him as a quite unassuming good soldier, always willing and ready for duty.

After the war he purchased a farm in the town of Magnolia, which occupation he followed until failing health compelled him to dispose of his farm and move into this city in 1886, where he has since resided still tilling the soil of a few acres until last fall, when he purchased a residence on Liberty street which he had nicely remodeled to his liking intending to spend the remainder of his days in comparative ease with the hard toil of the past. But it appears that one who knows better than any of us had prepared a place for him better than could be in this world for his comfort and reward.

Early in life he became a Christian and member of the M. E. church to which he was faithful to the end, as in all things else, and we don't know that we can say more for Mr. Palmer than that he was a good man in all and everything that the word good implies, and if he leaves any but friends in this world we certainly cannot tell why. He leaves a loving wife and two daughters to mourn their sad loss of one of the best of husbands and fathers that ever lived, who showed their devotion by bestowing upon him their tenderest care to the last

The funeral was held under the auspices of the G. A. R., of which he has been a valuable member for a number of years, meeting with friends at the home at 2 o'clock p. m. Thursday and at the

Ralph Parkin

Just wanted to let you know that through sheer unadulterated luck, I found an Ancestry.com site that lists the marriage of Ralph Parkins and Mary H. Eldridge on 25 Dec. 1876 - not in Chicago or Cook County, but in De Kalb County. This really surprised me since Ralph went to Reed Medical School in Chicago, Cook County, Illinois. However, I probably wouldn't have found it if you hadn't sent me the newspaper article giving the information that they were married in Illinois. Thanks again.

Pat

store. Other goods proportionately. all —Mr. Ralph Parkins, a medical Gre student, left town Tuesday for Russ the Medical College, Chicago. Mr. Doi
Parkins is one of our most studious, of 1 exemplary young men, and a six the month's tour in college will seem a all long time to his many friends here. cho

October 2, 1872, Evansville Review, p. 1, col. 2, Evansville, Wisconsin breathing spell Thursday morning, stre

—We noticed Dr. Ralph Parkin for on the street Monday morning, for A the first time for over a year. We nun understand he is located at Minne this sota Lake, Minn. in the practice of Mr.
medicine. Doi

July 14, 1875, Evansville Review, p. 1, col.. 2, Evansville,

Wisconsin

DR. RALPH PARKIN

Born February 11, 1848, in Auckland District Durham Co., England

Died April 16, 1882 in Minnesota Lake, MN

Mother: Effie Canote

Father: William Albert Parkin - both born in England

MARY ELDREDGE

Born December 18, 1851 in the State of New York

Died April 12, 1916 in Blue Earth, MN

Dr. Ralph Parkin and Mary Eldredge were married December 25, 1877 in DeKalb, IL. To this union was born one child, Genevieve Lurline Parkin. She was born August 21, 1881, in Minnesota Lake, MN

Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 3, Evansville, Wisconsin January 10, 1877

Dr. Ralph Parkin, of Minnesota Lake, Minn. and his bride, have been spending some days in Evansville. His wife was Miss Mary Eldredge. They were married Christmas in Illinois and have many friends in this place. We understand Dr. Parkin is working into a lucrative practice at his profession.

Evansville Review, p. 3, col. 4, April 22, 1882

The remains of Dr. Ralph Parkin were brought here for interment Monday night. Funeral at the Baptist church Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Parkin was formerly an Evansville boy, studied medicine here and after graduating at Rush Medical College, Chicago, went to Minnesota Lake, Minn. and established himself in the practice of his chosen profession. Recently, he began to fail, from hard labor, and having a sore upon his leg, and instead of its discharging properly, was absorbed into his enfeebled system and pyemial or blood poison setting in, soon carried him beyond recovery. His remains were accompanied by his wife and her mother, and who met other members of his family here--several brothers, two sisters and his mother, to attend the funeral. While a citizen here, he was much respected and many gazed on his pale and shrunken features for the last time, with feelings of deepest sadness.

(Buried in Maple Hill Cemetery, Evansville WI Orig. 1/129/8

Newspaper Article - A Remarkable Surgical Operation

We were witness Monday night last to what has been considered, even by the profession, rather a remarkable surgical operation. It is that of drawing the blood from an animal and returning the same again without the loss of life, or infusing blood into another person to save life where it has become nearly extinct by accident or otherwise.

A dog was selected on this occasion, and Drs. Parkin and Griswold, of this place, resolved they would test the experiment even at the expense of one of the canine race, if it should prove an unsuccessful experiment.

Chloroform was administered until the dog became insensible to pain, and lay perfectly motionless upon the table, when Dr. Parkin made a long and deep incision in the side of the animal's neck exposing the jugular vein, in which an incision was made and a glass tube inserted. The blood flowed into a receptacle surrounded, and so as to keep its contents warm, by water being poured into it. When enough had been taken without venturing too much upon the dog's life, the vein was tied and the tube inserted in a different direction. A large tube was now employed into which the warm blood was drawn, and by connecting it with a flexible tube to the one already in the vein, the blood flowed back into the animal's body of its own gravity, quite rapidly. When the blood was all returned, the vein was properly tied and the outside incision sewed up. The animal was now allowed to recover, and soon began to show real dog life.

We saw the animal again Tuesday morning, and it appeared to be rapidly recovering, and destined to enjoy another season of dog days, unless some less skillful hands should repeat the experiment.

About sixteen ounces of blood was taken, and the operation lasted nearly an hour.

Drs. Parkin and Griswold are young men in the profession; but possess nerve and skill quite equal to many older ones. The operation took place in the rear room of Mr. Lehman's cabinet store, and was witnessed by the writer, Mr. Case of the Spencer House and Mr. Lehman.

DR. RALPH PARKIN OBITUARY

Dr. Parkin was born in England in the year 1849. His parents made their home in Wis. after their removal from England to the United States. He pursued a thorough course of medical study at Rush College, Chicago. How he applied himself, his success in his profession clearly proves, for no real success is achieved in any vocation without close application and active labor. After receiving his diploma at this college, he immediately sought a location in the west. He was not long in establishing a good practice at Minnesota Lake, the place chosen for his field of action. The future looming with bright prospects, he returned to Evansville, Wis., full of hope, youth and vigor, and there married Miss Mary Eldredge, Dec. 25, 1877. From that time until his death, four short years, he came to be regarded by the people of Minnesota Lake as almost indispensable to their welfare, both public and private. Possessed of a generous, sympathetic spirit, he was ever ready to aid in advancing the public good, and responded quickly to the calls of the suffering and needy. A zealous christian, he was a pillar of strength and help in the church. His untiring efforts in the Sabbath school, over which he was superintendent during his residence at the Lake, kept it oft from sinking into nothingness. The loss which the S.S. as well as the church sustain, cannot be estimated. As a physician he was sought far and near, his practice was very large and daily increasing, indeed we may say, the cause of his death was owing directly to overwork in his profession. For weeks previous to his illness, he was with the sick night and day, taking but little rest, bad roads and bad weather completely prostrated him. Just in the prime of manhood, a large practice fully established, a pleasant home just completed, a baby prattler but eight months old to crown domestic happiness, a brilliant future before him, and lo! the destroying angel comes.

His remains were immediately taken to Wis. for burial. Mrs. Parkin, in this, her great bereavement, has the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community.

DR. RALPH PARKIN OBITUARY

It with feelings of deep regret that we are called upon to record the death our esteemed friend and brother, Dr. Ralph Parkin, who died at his home in Minnesota on Sunday morning, April 16th, 1882, from the effects of blood poison.

He was born in Durham Co. England, Feb. 8th, 1848, and came to this county with his parents when but two years of age. By his own exertion he obtained a good education, and when but sixteen years of age enlisted in the 43d Wis. Regiment of volunteers, and served until the close of war. Following his services in the army, he lived five years in Beloit, Wis., working at the wagon makers trade, and pursuing his studies for a physician at the same time, ending by graduating after two years study in Chicago at Rush Medical College. He located in Minnesota and followed his chosen profession until his death.

He was a strict temperance man and organized a Good Templar's lodge in the town where he lived, which was the means of reclaiming a number of men from a drunkard's grave. He was a sincere christian, a superintendent in the Sunday school and a leader in religious meetings. His sympathy and skill in relieving the ills of his fellow man, and his ardent piety in the service of his divine Master, endeared him to a host of warm-hearted friends. Conscious to the last moment, he spoke of the blessings of a future life, yet desiring to live that he might be a benefit of those around him. But above all considerations, the wish to be in submission to him, "who doth all things well."

To the wife whose "silver cord" has been broken, to the little child who is left fatherless, to the widowed mother who was so proud of her boy, to the brothers and sisters; and to all his friends and acquaintances, we offer our heart-felt sympathy in their bereavement; and trust that the mantle of consolation from a Father's loving hand may assuage their grief in the hope of a blessed reunion.

The funeral was held at Evansville, Wis. Tuesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, and largely attended.

DR. RALPH PARKIN OBITUARY

Evansville WI paper

Dr. Ralph Parkin, who died at Minnesota Lake, Minn., on Sunday, the 16th last, and was buried in this place on the following Tuesday, was born in England and came with his parents to this country when quite young. About 1870 he came to Evansville and engaged in wagon making with A. S. Baker, and at the same time studied medicine. Having graduated from Rush College, Chicago in 1874, he went to Minnesota and was very soon established in the practice of medicine at the place where he died. His noble manly nature, coupled with professional skill, soon secured for him the confidence and respect of the people and a medical practice quite satisfactory to him, which was never more appreciated than when disease laid him aside. He was married five years ago last Christmas to Miss Mary Eldredge of this place, who is left with an infant child, to mourn the loss of a kind and loving husband, and bear alone the burden and responsibility of caring for the little one.

About five years ago Dr. P. made a public profession of religion, from which time he took a decided stand on the side of Christ and his cause, both at home and in public. While there was no church organization in the place to which he felt he could join, he nevertheless entered heartily into every work which favored a decided Christian advance. He was early elected superintendent of the Sabbath School, which place he held when called to his long home; and the love of the children was so great for him, that they mourned his death, as the death of a father. He also found it convenient to meet with praying ones in the prayer circle and was truly a leader.

About six weeks before his death he was attacked with a pain below his knee, which developed into an abscess, and it was supposed resulted in blood poisoning, from which he died. He was at no time conscious of his condition, and left no words of his happy future, but his life was the very best evidence. The friends at his home were exceedingly kind, showing all the sympathy and attention possible; and the friends here manifested their respect by a profusion of flowers and a good congregation at the funeral notwithstanding the drenching rain.

Though Dr. P. had lived only 33 years, yet he has left the evidence that he lived for a noble purpose and was triumphantly successful.

We desire to express our sincere thanks to the many friends, who so kindly assisted in paying the last tribute of love and respect to our dear and cherished dead.

Mrs. Dr. R. Parkin

Mrs. C. B. Eldredge

THE REVIEW

Mankato, Tuesday, Sept. 12, 1882

Memoir of Ralph Parkin, M.D. of Minnesota Lake, Minn.

By E. J. Davis, M.D. of Mankato, and read before the Minn. Valley Med. Society at Waseca, Sept. 5th, 1882.

We had but just entered upon the second year of our existence as a society, when the fell destroyer entered our ranks and claimed for its victim one of the youngest, yet in point of professional attainments, the peer of any of our members, Dr. Ralph Parkin of Minnesota Lake, whose death it is to-day my painful duty to report to this society. And for the information of those present who were not fortunate enough to have had a personal and intimate acquaintance with him, and for the benefit of those who have but recently engaged in our noble calling, and they that contemplate doing so, let me mention a few of his noble, manly traits of character, all worthy of emulating.

In peaceful sorrow there is sometimes joy, and by nature, we love to share our sorrows rather than keep them locked in the seclusion of our own breasts. In accordance with this principle, and suggested no less by a sincere respect for our deceased friend, I have undertaken to prepare this brief and imperfect sketch of the life of him who has passed from this world of toil to receive his reward for the good and profitable use he made of the talents committed to his charge, until the Master shall come and reckon with him.

Dr. Parkin was born in Derhamshire, England, February 9th, 1848. His parents came to this country when he was but two years old, making their home in Wisconsin. His father died when he was but eight years old, leaving the widow with four small children and expecting to be a mother again in about a month. Thus in his early boyhood was he left fatherless and at that age when a father's advice and counsel is so greatly needed. But from his strict habit of industry, integrity and morality we are convinced that some person of superior mind and heart exerted their influence upon his character, in his youthful days, and believe such an one to have been his mother. We are one of those who entertain the belief that God never gave to woman a higher, nobler, grander and more holy mission in this life, than the care and culture of her offspring and the consequent moulding of their character.

After this sad event he was compelled to leave the parental hearthstone, work out, and obtain his daily bread by the sweat of his brow, also contribute his portion towards supplying it to other members of the family. Thus at an age when most boys, these days, do but little else than go to school, the stern hand of necessity deprived him of his boon; hence his advantages for obtaining an education were at best but meager, yet he was a lover of books, and succeeded by his own exertion in acquiring a fair, if not a liberal education. Although the doctor, in his youthful days, could not boast of academic honors or college lore, yet he looked beyond the wreath that entwined the brow of the learned as well as beyond the wealth, fame and applause of the world. By observation, study and experience, he improved his intellectual powers and accumulated a vast amount of practical knowledge, which qualified him for almost any emergency and particularly so for filling his chosen profession--the medical.

His preparatory medical studies were pursued under the tutelage of Dr. Evans, of Evansville, Wis., entering his office in the year 1870. In order to pursue, to completion, his studies he was compelled even now to work a portion of his time, which he did at carriage making for a gentleman in that village. He entered Rush Medical College, pursued a thorough and complete course, and graduated with honors from that institution in the spring of 1874. After receiving his diploma he sought immediately for a field to labor in, and having his attention called to the rapidly developing northwest, decided to come here, and selected as his future home the village of Minnesota Lake, Faribault county, Minn. Dr. Parkin was most emphatically, "a self-made man." in the ordinary acceptance of the phrase.

During the first few years of his practice he encountered some of the trials that many young practitioners meet with, but his noble, manly nature, close habits of study, careful attention to his patients, and undoubted professional skill, soon secured for him the confidence and respect of the people of Minnesota Lake and vicinity; also a practice that was quite satisfactory to him and never more remunerative than at the time of his death. About five years ago he made a public profession of religion, from which time he took a decided stand on the side of Christ and his cause, both at home and in public. He was early elected superintendent of the Sabbath school, which place he held when called to his long home; and the love of the children was so great for him that they mourned his death as that of a father. While there was no church organization in the place to which he felt he could join, he always made it convenient to meet with praying ones in the prayer circle and was truly a leader.

The future looming with bright prospects before him, he returned to Evansville, Wis., the place of his early student home, full of hope, youth and vigor, and there married Miss Mary Eldredge, on Christmas day, 1877. This union was blessed by the birth of a daughter who like himself is left early fatherless.

In the very prime of manhood and of professional usefulness, having a large practice fully established, a pleasant home just completed, for which he had worked hard, a baby prattler but eight months old to crown domestic happiness, a large circle of professional brethren who greatly admired and honored him, a brilliant future before him, and lo! the destroying angel comes.

About five weeks before his death a circumscribed swelling manifested itself in the calf of the right leg, quite painful and developed into an abscess, which he lanced. During its progress he continued to attend to his professional duties, getting about on crutches and being helped in and out of his buggy. Not taking, at this time, the rest that his system so greatly needed, because of his anxiety for his patients, and having a large number, he was soon confined to his bed, and rheumatoid arthritis manifested itself in the left knee joint, and in spite of all that could be done for him, a septic condition of his whole system was developed shortly before his death. He began to show signs of delirium towards the last week of his sickness, and died in an unconscious condition on the 16th day of April, having been confined to his bed just four weeks, leaving no parting word to his wife, child, kindred and friends. He had been for weeks previous to his illness with the sick day and night, thereby unable to take the rest that he so greatly needed, hence the immediate cause of his death was owing to overwork in his profession. His remains were taken for burial, to his former Wisconsin home, and the large circle of friends there manifested their respect by a profusion of flowers and attendance at his funeral. The unremitting attention of his wife, during his sickness, expressed in language stronger than words her attachment and love for him, and his solicitude for her showed that their love was mutual.

He never regarded wealth as the ultimate reward of labor and incessant toil. With him it was an inferior consideration when contrasted with the reward that follows the satisfaction of being successful in his calling, having the ability to relieve suffering, and the privilege of doing acts of charity and benevolence.

In the death of Dr. Parkin our profession has lost a consistent and useful member, and the people of Minnesota Lake and vicinity a careful, conscientious and successful physician and useful citizen. From his reserved and reticent habits he gave no indications to the superficial observer of the gifts and high qualities of mind and heart which he possessed, and were only observable upon a more intimate acquaintance with him. With a judgment of rare maturity for one of his years, patient in his investigations, logical in his conclusions, and for the advantages had fertile in resource, he had become to be considered the peer of many his seniors in his profession.

Being inured from early boyhood to labor, both physical and mental, it developed a self-reticent manner, though undemonstrative, and a closer friendship reveled the fact that he was always cordial and frank with his friends.

But scant justice can be done his memory in the brief space allotted us. Yet it is a privilege that we highly prize to be permitted to pay even this imperfect tribute to one who, whether as a man or physician, was equally admired and loved. He lived only thirty-three years, yet has left the evidence that he lived for a noble purpose, and that his brief, yet brilliant career was triumphantly successful.

We earnestly hope that our society may be spared another such a bereavement for many long years, but when we are taken, whether it be at the meridian or sunset of life, may we each strive to so live that we may be able to leave as good a record as Dr. Ralph Parkin has left.

Resolutions adopted by the Minnesota Valley Medical Association of Waseca Sept. 5, 1882, on the death of
Dr. Ralph Parkin of Minnesota Lake

Resolved: In the Providence of God, our friend and associate, Ralph Parkin, has been called away from us in the height of his usefulness.

Resolved: That as a body, we hearby place on record one deep sense of the rare combination of qualities which endowed Dr. Parkin to us as a man, and commanded our confidence in him as a Physician.

Resolved: That by the decors of an inscrutable Providence we are berift of a true friend and benefactor and we will ever cherish his memory with reverent love and rehearse as we console with each other the rare qualities of heart and mind which he possessed.

Resolved: That fully sensible to the loss that both our profession and the public have sustained in the death of Dr. Parkin, we deplore the event which has removed from us one so worthy in every way, the respect and esteem which he always inspired.

Resolved: That we tender to the wife and family of our friend, our heartfelt sympathy in their great sorrow and commend them for consolation to Him who is the only source of all true comfort.

Resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of Dr. Parkin and that they be entered upon the records of this society and be furnished for publication to the papers at this city.

W. A. Jones, M.D.

Secy

Following the death of Dr. Ralph Parkin, Mary Eldredge returned to Evansville, Wis. until she was united in marriage to John W. Vance of Minnesota Lake, Minn., on May 8, 1895, at the home of Mr. And Mrs. E. J. Ballard. They lived in Minnesota Lake until which time John W. Vance was appointed judge of probate of Faribault County. They then moved to Blue Earth, Minn.

David Patchin

Maple Hill Cemetery Records: David Patchen, died November 10, 1864. David was born in Wisconsin, the son of George and Harriet Patchin. In 1850, the family was living in Primrose, Dane county, Wisconsin. In 1860, the family was living in Magnolia township. George and an older brother Cyrus were farming. David was listed as 15 years old in 1860 and had attended school within the year of the census.

Horatio Patchin

Maple Hill Cemetery Records: Horatio Patchin, 15 years, 07 months and 10 days, died June 19, 1864 at Claysville, Alabama, Civil War, Co. D. 13th Reg. Wis. Vol. Born in Wisconsin the son of George and Saphrona Patchin. In 1850 the family was living in Primrose, Dane county, Wisconsin. In 1860, the family was living in Magnolia township. George and an older brother Cyrus were farming. Horatio was listed as 12 years old in 1860 and had attended school within the year of the census.

Obituary for Horatio Patchin: DIED. In Clayville, Alabama, of typhoid fever, June 19th, 1864, Horatio Patchin, aged about sixteen years, youngest son of Geo. Patchin, of Magnolia, Wis.

Last January Horatio volunteered in his country's service, and joined the Thirteenth Wisconsin Regiment, Co. D. During his sickness he was attended by the excellent Surgeon, Dr. J. M. Evans, and nursed by his brother, Sergeant E. S. Patchin. But the skill of a physician and the kindness and attention of a brother could not save him. Thus has fallen in early life, another, a sacrifice to his country. Thus mourning is carried into another family circle. Horatio was a young man of more than common promise. He was beloved by his young associates and much respected by all who knew him.

Janesville Weekly Gazette, July 22, 1864, p. 6, col. 3, Janesville, Wisconsin
Not the brother is listed as E. S. Patchin

Nelson Patterson Obituary.

The flag on the pole at the Grand Army hall stood at half mast from Wednesday afternoon of last week until Saturday evening in token of the death of Nelson Patterson, the second name on the list of charter members of that grand institution. His death took place at his residence on Church street at 1 o'clock p. m., Wednesday, May 7, 1890, after more than a year breaking down and wearing away of his usually firm physical constitution. The last few weeks of his life seemed to be attended with both mental and physical prostrations, so much so as to require pretty constant attendance both night and day and which was most cheerfully given by his Post comrades assisted by the W. R. C. of that order. He was buried from the Methodist church at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon under the auspices of both orders conjoined. His funeral was well attended by citizens and old friends and neighbors. Rev. W. W. Stevens, officiating. Mr. Patterson was originally from New York and moved to Brooklyn twp in 1846, coming to Evansville to live about 10 years ago. His age was 67 years.

Nelson Patterson

May 13, 1890, Evansville Review, p. 4, Evansville, Wisconsin

Civil War Veterans Buried in Union Cemetery, Union, Rock County, Wisconsin
Samuel B. Pinkham, Co. C. 2, Reg. Wis. Cav.

American Civil War Soldiers about Elisha Reed

Name:	Elisha Reed
Residence:	Evansville, Wisconsin
Enlistment Date:	24 Apr 1861
Side Served:	Union
State Served:	Wisconsin
Service Record:	Enlisted as a Private on 24 April 1861. Enlisted in Company H, 2nd Infantry Regiment Wisconsin on 24 Apr 1861. Transferred out of Company H, 2nd Infantry Regiment Wisconsin on 15 May 1864. Transferred into Regiment U.S. Veteran Reserve Corps on 15 May 1864. Mustered Out Regiment U.S. Veteran Reserve Corps on 11 Jun 1864.
Sources:	97

U.S. National Homes for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers,
1866-1938

Soldier, Veteran & Prisoner Rolls & Lists

View Image

Name: Elisha R
Reed
Birth Year: abt 1835
Keyed Ohio
Birth
Location:
Birth Ohio
State:
Admitted 1909
Year:
Age at 74
Admission:
State: Wisconsin
County: Milwaukee
City: Milwaukee
Branch: Northwestern
Branch

Take a look at the picture to see even more.

See more

Elisha R. Reed.

Time and Place of Each Enlistment.	Rank.	Company and Regiment.	Time and Place of Discharge.	Cause of Discharge.	Disabilities when admitted to the Home.
April 21st 1861. Granville, Wis.	P	H. 4 Wis Inf	May 15 1861 Washington D.C.	Sep. V.R.C.	Smility, Indigestion, Act. Leucorrhoea, Act. Rheum.
October 10 1861 Hampden, Mo.	P	E. 33 Mo S M	Nov 18 1861 Kingsport, Mo.	Ex Service	Hyp of Postate, Mental Condition appears Normal
May 13 1861 Washington, D.C.	P	C. 22 V.R.C.	June 11 1861 Washington D.C.	Ex Service

DOMESTIC HISTORY.

DOMESTIC HISTORY.

Where Born.	Age.	Height.	Complexion.	Color of Eyes.	Color of Hair.	Read and Write.	Religion.	Occupation.	Residence Subsequent to Discharge.	Married or Single.	Name and Address of Nearest Relative.
Ohio	74	5'9"	Fair	Blue	Gray	Yes	Protestant	Carpenter	Wes	Married	Wife Sophia Reed. Albany, N.Y.

[illegible]

PAPERS		Location of Grave and Remarks.
Admission Paper	Cus
Army Discharge	Car.
Certificate of Service	Doc. (McKinnon)
Pension Certificate	102151
no EFFECTS.
Cash,	none	$
Pension Money	none	$
Personal, Appraised at	none	sold $
Total		$
How Disposed of

U.S. National Homes for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, 1866-1938 about Elisha R Reed

Name:	Elisha R Reed
Birth Year:	abt 1835
Keyed Birth Location:	Ohio
Birth State:	Ohio
Admitted Year:	1909
Age at Admission:	74
State:	Wisconsin
County:	Milwaukee [Washington]
City:	Milwaukee [Wood]
Branch:	Northwestern Branch

Elisha Reed listed as a prisoner of the Rebels in Salisbury, N. C.

rechy.

WISCONSIN SOLDIERS IN THE HANDS OF THE REBELS.—The Philadelphia Inquirer of Monday gives a list of Union officers and soldiers who have been confined at Salisbury, N. C., for the past four months and are still held there. The following names of Wisconsin soldiers are given, all from the 2d regiment:

T. Brookens, Co. C; J. S. Boll, Co D; E. S. Best, Co. G; G. Beck, Co. H; J. E. Donovan, Co. B; J. Frame, Co. B; S. W. Graven, Co. E; Capt. G. Graves, Co. E; S. P. Jackson, Co. B; E. C. March, Co. A; D. Perry, Co. E; H. Parker, Co. A; H. Kohder, Co. C; E. K. Reed, Co. H; J. Ross, Co. K; B. Stimson, Co. E; M. Stroud, Co. E; O. Wilcox, Co. D.

J. Langdon, of Co. I, and Solomon Wise, of Co K, of the Wisconsin 1st are also there.

June 6, 1862, Janesville Daily Gazette, p. 2, Janesville, Wisconsin